Welcome to Ulster University

Going to university is an exciting step and choosing where to study is an important decision that will shape your future. This prospectus gives you a flavour of life at our London and Birmingham branch campuses; the unique student experience, central locations and stimulating learning environments where you can pursue your ambitions at one of the world's top 150 young universities.¹

What sets us apart is how we prepare you for your future career. The Ulster student experience goes far beyond the classroom or lecture theatre. Our strong links with industry and professional bodies ensure that our courses meet market needs and that our graduates are fully equipped with the skills and know-how to forge successful, rewarding careers. Our employment rate speaks for itself; over 93 percent² of our graduates are in work or further study within six months of leaving Ulster.

We understand that going to university is an important milestone in your learning journey. We are committed to making your transition as smooth as possible and offer a full range of support services designed to enhance your experience at Ulster.

Our branch campuses are conveniently located in central London and in the heart of Birmingham, two of the UK's fastest growing entrepreneurial communities. This means you'll be perfectly placed to find part-time work and internship opportunities.

Why Ulster University?

We are renowned for the student experience we offer. From great teaching to first class resources and facilities, all within a welcoming and supportive learning environment, you will receive a 'uniquely Ulster' experience that will help you to fulfil your potential.

Great teaching

Ulster strives to deliver an excellent student experience in every way. We are renowned for the quality of our teaching, which is enhanced by world-class research.¹

Career-focused

Over 93%² of Ulster graduates are in work or further study six months after graduation – one of the best rates in the UK. Our courses are developed with employer and professional body input, ensuring that you graduate 'work-ready' and with the skills and knowledge that employers need.

Ulster welcome

The friendliness and support we offer ensures you will feel at home and make an easy transition to university life in London or Birmingham. Our campuses provide an inclusive learning environment, welcoming learners from all backgrounds.

Personal experience and great opportunities

With small class sizes and regular one to one time with your tutors, our London and Birmingham campuses provide a personal and beneficial study environment. You will be situated in one of the UK's fastest growing business communities, meaning you will be open to more networking opportunities than anywhere else in the UK.

Accessible education

Ulster is committed to widening access and participation to higher education. At the heart of this is the principle that education should be available to all those with the ability to benefit from it.

We consider a range of qualifications, learning credits, informal learning and prior work experience to assess your ability to study your chosen course.

Affordable learning

Undergraduate or postgraduate study can be a significant financial commitment but our courses are competitively priced to ensure good value for money. Ulster's courses represent an excellent investment in your future career.

Your home away from home

It's a big step moving to a new city or country to study. We understand that living away from home is a big part of the student experience and we appreciate the need for you to find the perfect place to live.

There are lots of different factors to consider when choosing where to live during your studies.

How to arrange your accommodation

Finding the right accommodation for you may seem like a daunting task, especially if this is the first time you will be living independently or living in the UK.

To help you get settled as smoothly as possible, we partner with reputable student accommodation providers, who can offer you further options for finding accommodation while studying with us.

Our accommodation partners are available to assist you with all your accommodation queries about living in either London or Birmingham.*

*Please note, your accommodation contract is with the accommodation provider and not with Ulster University or QA Higher Education.

Here are a few questions you should ask yourself when making your decision:

- How much is the rent?
- Where is it in relation to the campus?
- How long will it take me to get to classes and to get home?
- How many people will I share facilities (e.g. kitchen, bathrooms etc.) with?
- Are bills included in the rent or might there be extra monthly costs?
- Can I meet the housemates first?
- What is the local area like and what local facilities and amenities are available?
- What is the booking process?
- Is there a deposit to pay?
- How long is the accommodation booked for?
- Is it catered or self-catered?
- Where are the nearest shops for all those last minute groceries?
- How much will it cost me to travel to my classes?
- How do I pay my rent and when is it due?

² Times Higher Education 2016

* Selected postgraduate programmes. Open to UK and EU nationals only.

Academic year

Teaching is split into two or three semesters for most students (shorter courses may run for one). Each semester comprises 12 weeks of teaching followed by an exam period. Students will typically study three modules in each semester (18 modules of study make up a standard three-year degree programme).

To allow you to balance your academic studies with your personal life, you have the option to choose to study full-time during the evening and weekends* for postgraduate study (see page 46).

Successful completion of our undergraduate and postgraduate courses requires significant additional personal study time, but the reward is worth the effort.

Lectures, seminars and tutorials

Teaching is delivered through lectures, seminars and tutorials. Lectures are formal teaching sessions, often with a larger group of students. Seminars, which usually provide a form of follow-up to lectures, take place in smaller groups and are often used to promote group discussion about a specific topic. In tutorials, a small number of students meet with a tutor to discuss work and to raise points of particular interest or difficulty.

Assessments

You will be assessed at each stage of your course. The purpose of assessment is to provide you with feedback on your progress and to further develop course content and teaching. Your learning will be assessed in the most appropriate way for each subject.

"I love the learning environment, the lecturers use a mix of theoretical and practical teaching styles that are always tailored to our needs. They are extremely enthusiastic and informative and always there to support me if I need assistance. This makes me confident that I will succeed in my studies."*

Help and advice when you need it

Life as a student is exciting, but it can also be demanding and you may face personal challenges along the way. That's where the Student Support teams can assist. We offer a range of services to help you cope, allowing you to make the most of your time at university.

Student Support

The University's Student Services and Student Welfare teams are always available to make sure that everything goes as smoothly as possible. We work hard to ensure you have a fantastic and fulfilling experience at Ulster, regardless of how your circumstances may change during your studies.

Our Student Support teams are ready to help with everything from health and disability, to counselling and faith issues.

Accessibility

If you have a disability or medical condition please get in touch as soon as you apply for a place at Ulster. Our Student Welfare team can help with additional study needs, provide guidance on funding for disability support and recommend any other reasonable adjustments required.

Health and wellbeing

It is important to look after yourself at university, both physically and emotionally. Our Student Welfare team can also provide guidance and support on academic issues, coping with stress, or family or relationship problems. Appointments with a trained counsellor can be arranged quickly and conveniently. Our services ensure that all students have the know-how to keep themselves safe and healthy while studying with us.

Student finance

We believe that the overall Ulster experience offers excellent value for money and is a great investment in your future. However, understanding the way funding and finances work can be quite challenging so our Student Finance team are on hand to advise you on financial matters.

2018/19 tuition fee:

	London
International	£10,000
UK/EU	£9,250

Overview

The overall aim of the course is to provide a broadly based education in computing systems that will produce graduates equipped to apply best practice in software engineering to the development of a wide range of information systems in organisations. This will enable graduates to embark on a professional career in computing with specific vocational skills relevant to local industry needs. The course will also help meet industry's current shortage of high quality graduates in computing, particularly those with software development skills.

The BSc Hons Computing Systems course recognises that software development skills need to be complemented with people and process related skills. Consequently people, process and professional practice are important topics within modules of the course and allow the development of a broad base of skills appropriate to a software engineer.

You will have the opportunity to develop knowledge, skills and insight in the following areas:

- The theory and principles of programming and software engineering, computer hardware and software technologies, and the role of computing systems in organisations
- The ability to analyse computing problems and formulate practical solutions to these problems, coupled with the ability to critically evaluate the approach and techniques used
- The development of practical skills in software development in a business/industrial context
- Developing key skills and competencies to support the student's progression into a career in the software industry or further academic study.

Professional accreditation

Graduates from this course have been successful in gaining full membership of the British Computer Society, the Chartered Institute for IT.

Career and progression options

Upon graduation students will be eligible to embark on a professional career in computing or to undertake further study at master's or PhD level.

Career routes include:

- Designing business-critical computer systems.
- Providing consultancy on computing systems development.
- Managerial roles with responsibility for an organisation's computing resources.

Financial support available:

- ✓ Student Finance*
- ✓ Flexible payment plan
- ✓ Upfront payment discount

* Open to UK and EU nationals only.

 For self-financing students only.

International	£11,500	£10,000
UK/EU	£5,150	£5,150

Overview

MSc International Business is a one-year postgraduate degree which aims to allow students to acquire mastery of both the macro and micro contexts of international business. It is designed to enable students to acquire, develop and integrate international business theory whilst developing the skills to then apply this in terms of international business practice.

The master's dissertation provides the opportunity to conceive, design and satisfactorily implement a substantial research project within the broad subject area of international business.

You will have the opportunity to develop knowledge, skills and insight in the following areas:

- Build knowledge and understanding of the political, social and cultural aspects of different trade blocs, particularly the European Union, Asia and the USA
- Analysing core management techniques from varying perspectives to understand their application on an international scale
- The shared experience of other students and business professionals from varied cultural, economic and employment backgrounds.

Career and progression options

Student and employer needs are reflected in the development of this programme and evidenced in the career destinations and further development of our graduates. The course is designed to equip you for employment in a wide range of international roles within the public and private sectors and a significant number of graduates are successful in gaining promotion in their chosen fields, or alter their career paths following completion of their programme of study.

A significant number of graduates from these programmes have also undertaken their doctoral studies, both within Ulster University and beyond.

MBA

Master of Business Administration

Faculty: Business School

Campus: London

Start date: September

Mode of study: Full-time: daytime or evening & weekend*

Level of study: Postgraduate, FHEQ level 7

Duration: 1 year

Assessment methods: Combination of coursework and examinations

Delivery methods: Seminars, lectures, tutorials and workshops

2018/19 entry conditions: Second class honours degree (2:2 or 2:1) or international equivalent.

In addition, applicants would normally have 2 years' relevant work experience.

English language requirements: GCSE grade C (or equivalent); the minimum English language requirements for non-native English speakers, are IELTS 6.0 with no contributing band at less than 5.5 (internal English language assessment available).

2018/19 tuition fee:

	London
International	£12,000
UK/EU	£8,000

Overview

The MBA is a general management course aimed at aspiring and established middle managers from a range of business sectors.

The course has been designed to account for current (local, regional and international) market trends and has recently been updated to provide additional flexibility, choice and the opportunity to apply taught management skills.

The overall objective of this course is to educate and develop individuals as managers and business specialists, adding value through an integrated, applied and critical understanding of management and organisations, as well as the development of professional, transferable and intellectual skills that are essential for successful general and strategic management in private, public and third sector organisations.

You will have the opportunity to develop knowledge, skills and insight in the following areas:

- Develop multidisciplinary and international perspectives, concepts and issues in the major management disciplines
- Gain an understanding of relevant toolkits and techniques for analysing business and management issues
- Cultivate the ability to analyse, synthesise and apply knowledge and understanding to solve management problems critically, rationally and rigorously
- Gain an appreciation and application of contemporary management and information systems to aid strategic decision making in business and management
- Develop an appreciation and responsibility for lifelong learning and personal development
- Develop skills for leadership and transformational roles in business in the changing external context within which they are likely to operate.

Career and progression options

The MBA places a strong focus on enhancing the employment prospects of its graduates. Previous Ulster University alumni have secured positions within large multinational organisations such as Diageo, PricewaterhouseCoopers, Deloitte and KPMG as well as small to medium sized enterprises. Others have used the programme as a valuable springboard to gain a thorough understanding of business and management principles before starting up their own business.

Evening and weekend study – Frequently asked questions

One of our study options available for UK and EU nationals includes evenings and weekends. This study option offers exactly the same levels of student support and the ability to balance your full-time studies with your personal life, but what does this actually mean?

What would a typical week look like if I have chosen to study evening and weekends?

Evening and weekend study provides you with the ability to have flexibility with your personal commitments alongside your studies.

You are expected to attend 12 hours of classes per week on campus, and an additional 23-30¹ hours of self-study per week.

Your typical week on campus could look like this:

2 evenings per week: 5.45pm – 8.30pm²
1 Saturday per week: 9.30am – 3.00pm²

What courses offer evening and weekend study?³

Evening and weekend study options are available for the majority of our postgraduate courses. These include:

Extended MSc International Business (page 34)
Extended MSc Marketing (page 36)
MSc International Business (page 40)
MSc Marketing (page 42)

Can I still apply for Student Finance for evening and weekend study?

Your course is classed as a full-time course, with your classes taking place during evening and weekend hours. As a result, and as a UK or EU student, you can apply for a postgraduate loan through Student Finance England up to £10,280. Please see 'Fees and funding' on page 49 for more information and eligibility criteria.

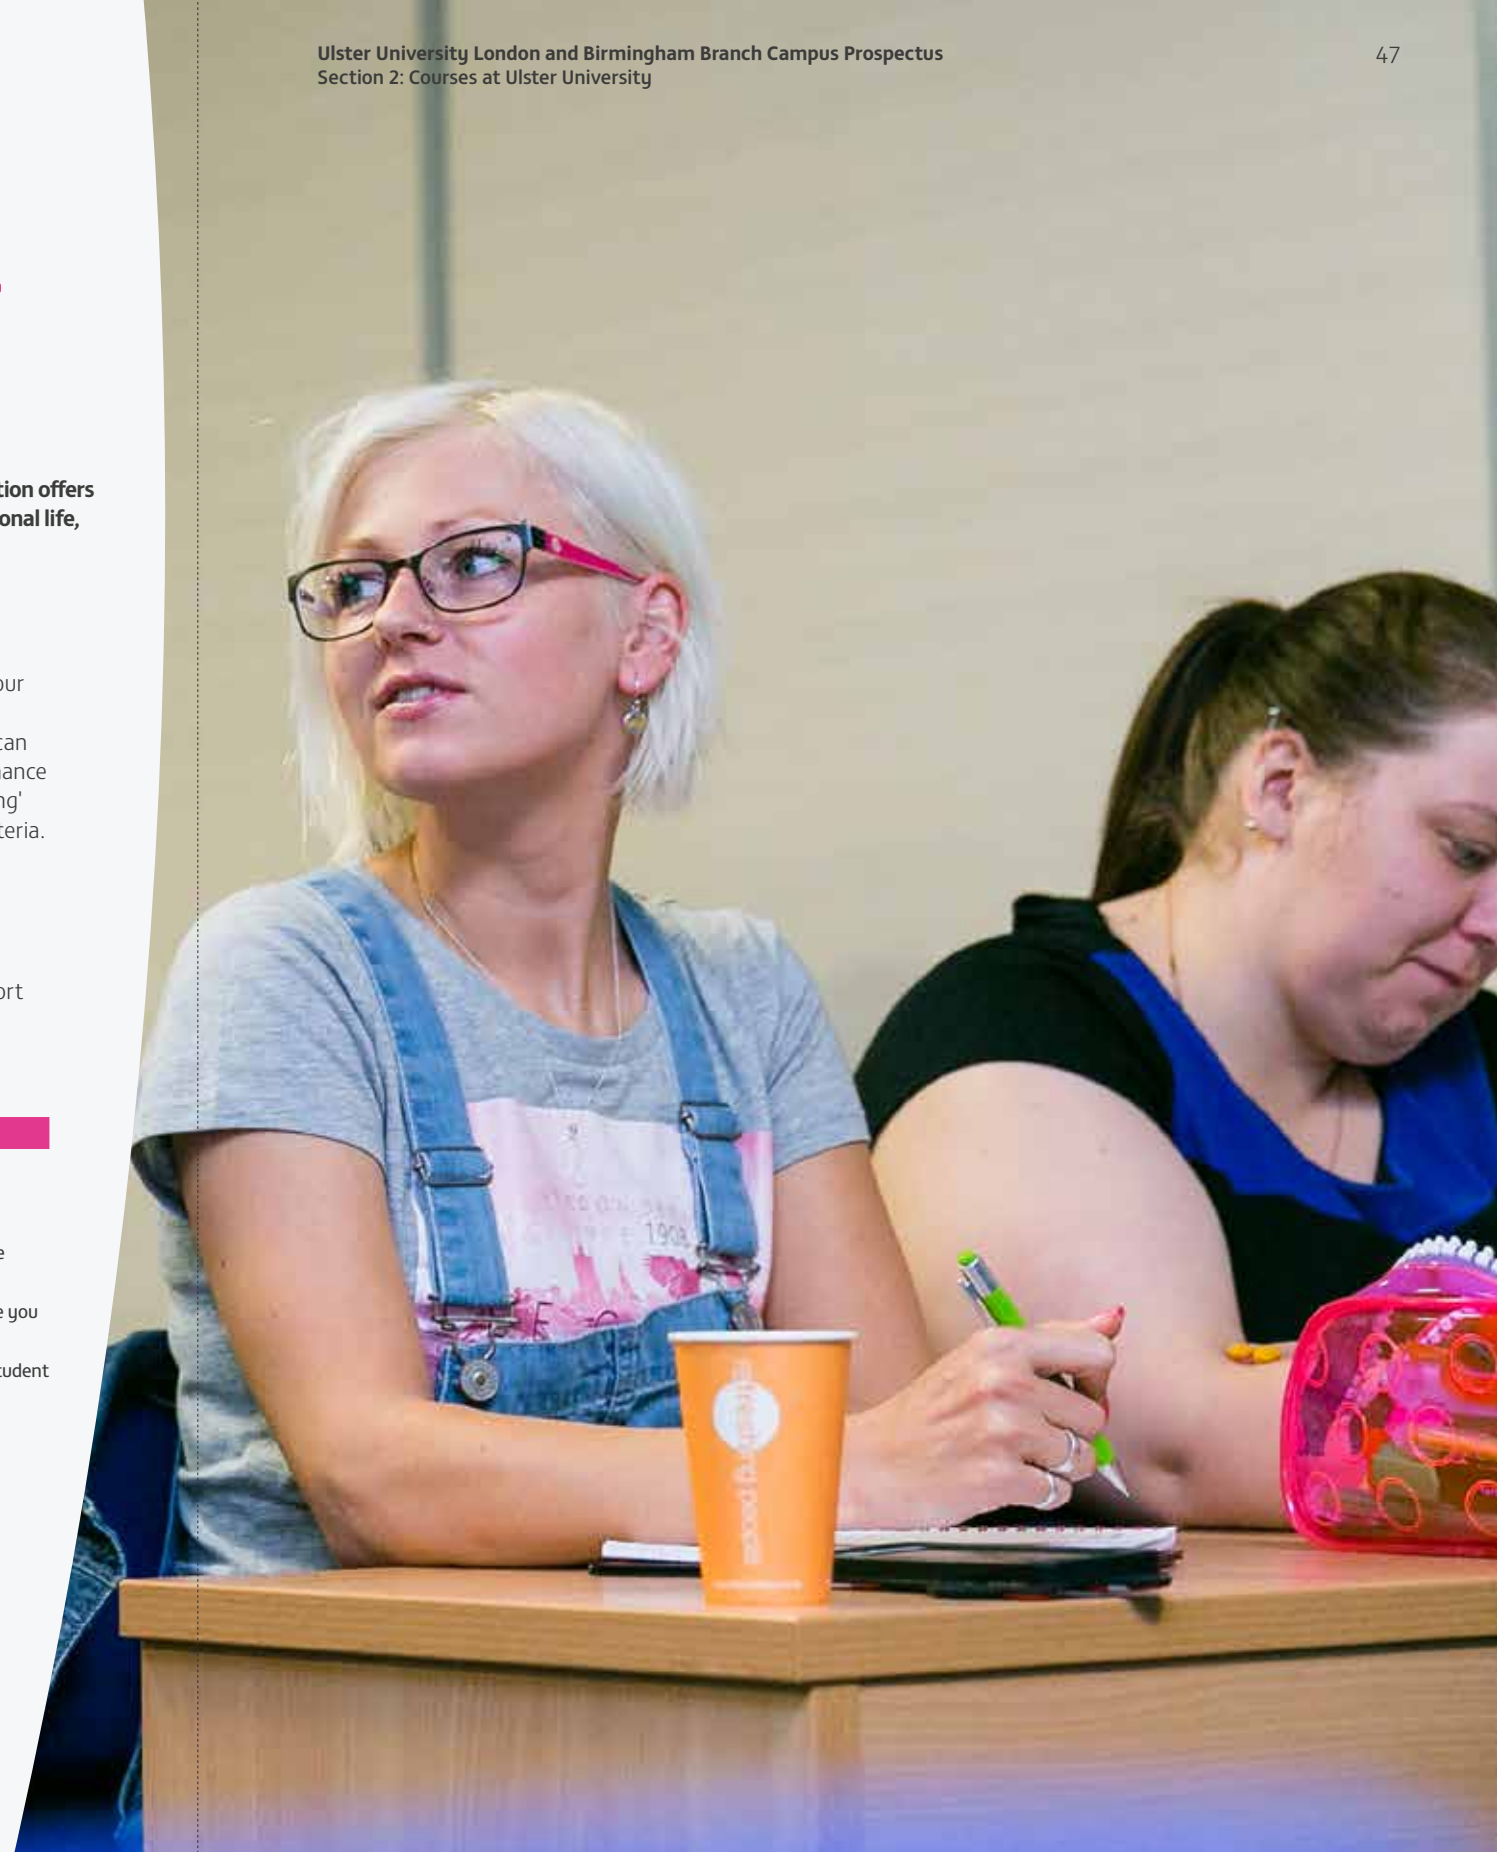

Can I access the university campus outside my study hours?

Yes you can. As an evening and weekend study student, you will still receive the exact same support and access to university resources as students who study weekdays. Our campuses offer flexible opening hours to meet your study needs.

Fees and funding

Finances are an important consideration for students. As an Ulster University student you can take advantage of our competitive fees and flexible payment options, if you are a self-funding student.

Your course fees cover registration costs, teaching for the course and access to the learning resources of our branch campuses and Student Support Services. They do not include the cost of course books, stationery and photocopying/printing costs, accommodation, living costs, travel, hobbies, sports or other leisure activities.

Funding for UK and EU students

Fees do not have to be paid up-front – a tuition fee loan can be taken out for both undergraduate and postgraduate programmes (up to £10,280 for postgraduate study). You can defer payment until you have graduated and are in employment earning over £21,000. If you are resident in the UK and are applying for a full-time undergraduate course then you may also qualify for a maintenance loan.

Terms and conditions apply and can be subject to change without notice, for more information on payment methods and full payment terms and conditions, please visit: gov.uk/studentfinance

Some courses may also have additional costs which are not included in your tuition fee. Check the individual programme specification on the website for more details.

Scholarships

A comprehensive range of financial scholarships are available to undergraduate and postgraduate students. Scholarships recognise the many ways in which our students are outstanding in their subject. Individuals may be able to apply directly or may automatically be nominated for awards.

For more information and eligibility criteria, please visit: qa.ulster.ac.uk/scholarships

Upfront payment discounts

Self-funded students can take advantage of a payment discount. You will qualify for an early payment discount if you pay your deposit for the academic year before the following deadlines:

Start date	Discount	Deadline date
September	£500	1 July
January	£500	1 November
May	£500	1 March

This offer cannot be used in conjunction with any other discount, offer or scholarship and the course fee stated on your offer letter must be more than £6,000. Any discount will be applied when the funds are processed and payment has been confirmed by our Admissions team.

Flexible payment plan

If you are a self-funded student, we are happy to offer an interest-free flexible payment plan spreading the cost of your course over three months during your first year. The first payment will be due on, or shortly before enrolment, with subsequent payments due on the last working day of each consecutive month thereafter.

We are committed to assisting you in your studies wherever possible. If you are experiencing unforeseen financial difficulties in paying your tuition fees, our Finance team are always on hand to help.

Alumni discounts

If you have completed your undergraduate degree at Ulster University, you are eligible to apply for our alumni discount of 10 percent off your tuition fees. You will be asked at application to provide details of eligibility. This offer cannot be used in conjunction with any other discount, offer or scholarship.

Payment options

We accept all major credit/debit cards except for American Express and Laser. The payment methods we accept are Direct Bank Transfer, payments by telephone, or in person. If you are an international student, you can pay your fees in your local currency via PaytoStudy. This helps to ensure that you receive competitive foreign exchange rates without incurring international banking fees. Please check the website for more information on payment methods and full payment terms and conditions.

You can also apply directly for your chosen course. To download an application form please visit:
qa.ulster.ac.uk/apply

Course requirements

Ulster University recognises a wide range of qualifications for admission to its programmes of study. Although admissions requirements may be expressed as Advanced Level qualifications, offers can also be made at the equivalent level for applicants offering a BTEC or a combination of qualifications. For many programmes of study, applicants may be able to satisfy the requirement for one of the A Level grades (or equivalent) by substituting a combination of alternative qualifications to the same standard as defined by UCAS.

Applicants are encouraged to provide all qualifications that attract UCAS tariff points in their application. These qualifications may be considered by the University should conditional offer grades be narrowly missed.

Postgraduate programmes

Applications for full-time postgraduate courses are made directly using our downloadable application form.

Before applying, check that you meet the University's General Entrance Requirements and the specific requirements for your chosen course(s). These can be found at: qa.ulster.ac.uk/entry-requirements

When to apply

Places are limited so we encourage you to apply early to ensure you are considered for your chosen course. For key dates and deadlines for each of our programmes, please visit: qa.ulster.ac.uk/dates

What happens next

The Admissions team will consider your application and send you details of the outcome. If you are sent an offer you will also receive details for registration and enrolment.

How to apply – International applicants

Undergraduate and postgraduate programmes

If you are an international student, you can apply directly to us for your chosen course using our downloadable application form. You can complete this process at your own pace and check the status of your application with our Admissions team.

Before applying, check that you meet the University's General Entrance Requirements and the specific requirements for your chosen course(s). You can also check how country-specific qualifications compare by visiting: qa.ulster.ac.uk/entry-requirements

We recommend that you apply as early as possible to ensure that you have sufficient time to prepare for studying in the UK, make visa arrangements and arrive ahead of enrolment. For key dates and deadlines for each of our programmes, please visit: qa.ulster.ac.uk/dates

Application process

1. Contact us to request an application form, or visit qa.ulster.ac.uk/apply to download the form. Complete and return this form, along with your supporting documents by email to us.
2. Once we receive your fully completed application form and supporting documents our Admissions team will assess your application.
3. If you are a suitable applicant we will send you a conditional offer letter.
4. Once you have met your conditions, your application will be sent to Faculty for review. If your application is successful, we will issue you with an unconditional offer letter.
5. You will then need to pay your first year tuition fees (or minimum required deposit) and supply qualifying bank statements.
6. Once we receive this paperwork and your fees have been paid, we will issue you with a Confirmation of Acceptance for Studies (CAS).
7. Once you have received your CAS, you will need to contact your local UK Embassy to apply for your visa.
8. Your visa will be granted once you have satisfied all of the UKVI requirements to obtain a Tier 4 Visa.
9. You can then travel to the UK to begin your studies.

What happens next

The Faculty office for your chosen course will consider your application and send you details of the outcome. If you are sent an offer you will also receive details for registration and enrolment. Only students who meet the visa entry requirements will be enrolled onto the course.

Applying for a visa

Unless you are a national or permanent resident of a European Economic Area country, you will be required to have obtained appropriate immigration permission in order to study at the University.

You can apply for your visa online or by completing Application Form VAF9 and PBS Appendix 8 Tier 4 General Student Self-Assessment at your nearest British diplomatic post or visa application centre. Further information about visa applications is available at: gov.uk/ukvi

Important information for International Applicants

If you are applying to study a new programme in the UK and have previously studied in the UK using a Student or Tier 4 (General) Student visa, the new programme must represent academic progress from your previous study.

The Tier 4 Policy Guidance states that in order to show academic progression, your new programme must:

- normally be above the level of the previous course for which you were given Tier 4 leave.

If the course you are applying for is not at a higher level than your previous course, there are exceptions to this rule where the University (the Tier 4 Sponsor) confirms that:

- the new course is related to the previous course for which you were given Tier 4 leave and involves deeper specialisation of your chosen subject; or
- your previous and new course combined support your career aspirations.

You will be required to articulate how the new course demonstrates academic progression for you in the form of a personal statement. You should outline which modules you previously studied at this level and how they have prepared you for study at Ulster. Ulster Admissions staff will carry out a full assessment and may ask for additional information if it is not clear that you satisfy the UKVI requirements on academic progression.

Questions about your application

You can contact our Admissions team for advice at any time during or after the application process. The Admissions team will help you with enquiries about admission and the progress of your application.
